FRENCH MAKE TERRIFIC DEFENSE OF FORTIFIED POSITIONS SURROUNDING VERDUN.

ATTACKERS HOLD FORT

German Still in Possession of Douaumont Although Occupancy of Verdun is Under Dispute.

The second week of the great battle at Verdun opens with the French developing counter offensives and both sides disputing each other's claims as to results.

Lives lost by sinking of steamer Maloja off Dover yesterday may total 1, of which 64 were passengers. In addition to other boats sunk was the Russian steamer Petshanga, but its crew was saved.

Italian papers say their country's efforts in Albania will be centered on Avlona, which is regarded as the greatest strategic importance as compared with Durazzo, evacuated last week.

Germans turned from defense in Champagne region and by a surprise attack drove French from trenches on a mile front ship sunk with "numerous victims" after striking a mine on Albanian coast.

German ambassador told the United States government said no reason to postpone new submarine tactics.

Germans Continue Advance.

Berlin, Feb. 28, via London.—Attempts by the French to retake the fortress of Douaumont have not only failed, but the German advance on Verdun continues steadily, according to reports from the front. In rapid succession, Louvemont, Champneuville, Toul, and Harcourt have been taken. The German advance has been accompanied by the capture of 15,000 French prisoners in their hands, now stand less than five miles from the center of Verdun.

The capture of Navarin farm, in the Champagne region, was announced today. French positions on both sides of the farm over a front of about 1,600 yards were taken. It is said more than 1,000 men and nine machine guns were captured.

The Verdun region fresh French reserves were exhausted in fruitless efforts against Fort Douaumont. The Germans advanced their lines further and made great gains in the Woerwe. It is said French troops have been driven from the Meuse peninsula.

French Lines Holding.

Paris, Feb. 28.—So far as the French official statement is concerned, the French lines in the immediate vicinity of Verdun are holding firm. The German attack is developing along the front to the east and south.

At Fort Douaumont, where the fighting has been heaviest, the situation is unchanged. The fortress itself, apparently, is held by the Germans. In the village of Douaumont, a few hundred yards from the fort, there was a furious struggle last night. The war office announces that attempts to capture the village resulted in failure.

The village of Verdun, which lies bending south to St. Mihiel, the Germans are pressing the attack. The French statement reports a futile German attack against Manheulles, ten miles southeast of Verdun, which may indicate an advance in that quarter, although the precise location of the front in this section has not been made known.

Impetuous counter attacks by the French troops north of Verdun in which the Germans were thrown back from many positions, conquered by the French during the first four days of the battle, according to reports from the front, are considered as inaugurating a second phase of the great action under conditions most favorable to the French.

A Frencher Briand told representatives of the press today how the tide was going.

"Caught between two fires," said M. Briand, "covered with shrapnel from all sides, attacked by our fresh divisions surging upon the field of battle at an unexpected moment, the Germans saw their efforts stopped short. The struggle was a titanic one. Our heroic troops were not only victorious, but before our furious counter attacks, we regained the advantage. Installed upon formidable positions, our heroic soldiers remained masters of the battlefield."

French Force Surrenders.

Berlin, Feb. 28.—A German correspondent at the Verdun front reports that on the night of February 22, when the fighting was becoming more intense, a soldier suddenly appeared at one of the German positions, having crawled from the French line.

He said that a French captain and sixty men desired to surrender, but were unable to give themselves up, on account of the intensity of the German fire.

The direction of the fire was changed somewhat, the correspondent says, whereupon the sixty Frenchmen surrendered. Others then gave themselves up.

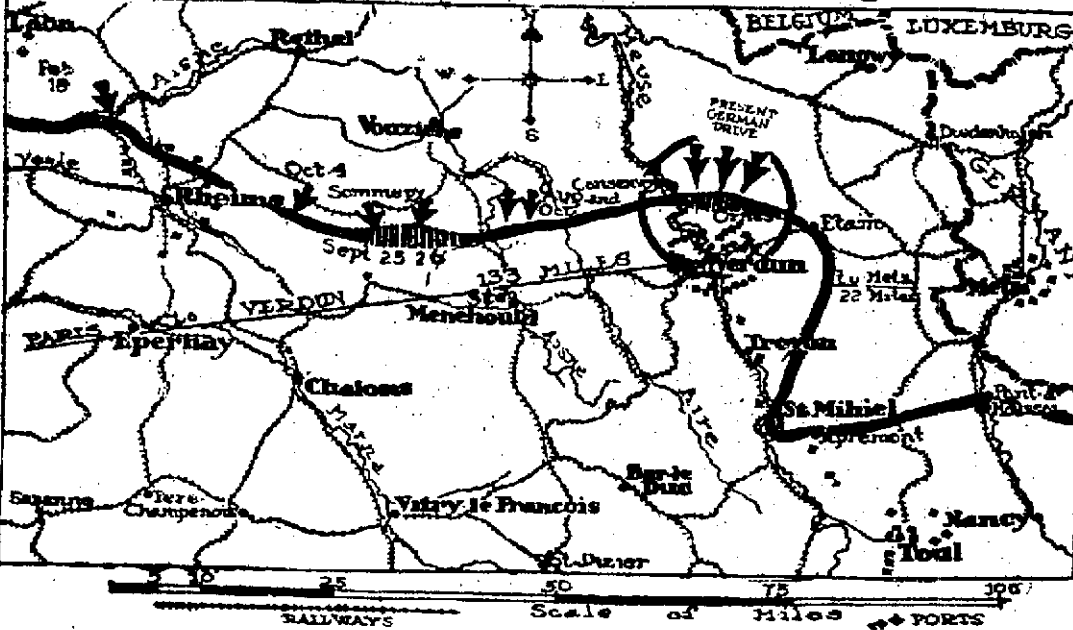

POSTPONE DEATH FOR FIFTH TIME

Germans Hammer Verdun, Europe's Strongest Fortress

What motives actuated the German general staff in sending the crown prince's army in the present tremendous onslaught directly against Verdun itself, instead of as in the previous attacks against the northern flank of the fortress, in the Argonne west of the Meuse, in the hope of isolating it, are not yet clear.

Verdun lies in the extreme point of a great salient angle of the French lines. It is the line of the Meuse and the line of the Argonne, and the Germans would have to embark on further attacks. Even if they reached the Aire the Germans really would be no nearer a half past along the Meuse and they would also have many miles to go before threatening the great trunk railways from Paris to Nancy, Toul, Epinal and Belfort and the Vosges front.

Would Strengthen Germans.

The Germans, however, would have immensely strengthened their own position from the defensive point.

Verdun is of most important strategic importance as a threat to the German Argonne position on the other side and the St. Mihiel salient on the other, and as a starting point for a future attack on Metz, than it is as a defensive point.

The present battle raging around Verdun is the greatest on the western front since the Champagne and Aisne battles last September, and by far the greatest German attack in the west since the first battle of Ypres in November, 1914. The front attacked by the Germans is nearly as long as the front in Champagne on which the French advanced last September. The attacking forces employed must be nearly as large, and the amount of ground gained compares favorably with the amount of ground taken by the French on that occasion. If only as showing that the Germans still have men enough to take the offensive on a large scale in the west the attack possesses great significance.

Whole Salient a Fortification.

The whole area within the threatened salient, however, if accounts are true, is one vast fortification. American correspondents have been taken over part of the Verdun lines, and have reported that they form a labyrinth, line within line, with immense subterranean passages in the rock hundreds of feet below the earth's surface, and with hundreds of guns of all caliber mounted on tracks ready to be rushed from point to point, hundreds of steel turrets and thousands of machine guns.

On the map, the arrows on the German side of the line show the various German attacks on this portion of the front in recent months, of which the most ambitious were the two attacks in the Argonne last August and October. The arrows near Somme-Py, opposite Rheims and opposite Soissons, show the German local attacks in the past two weeks, leading up to the present great drive.

GERMANY TO CARRY OUT SHIP ORDER

BERNSTORFF DELIVERS NOTE STATING THAT FORMER ASSURANCES HAVE NOT BEEN MODIFIED.

PLEDGES NOT REVOKED

Attack on Merchantmen "Armed Defensively" Would in No Way Violate Previous Agreements, Latest Note Argues.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Feb. 28.—In a note presented to Secretary Lansing today by Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, Germany assures the United States that it has no intention of revoking the pledges given in the Lusitania case. The note says Germany can conceive of no reason for changing or postponing the new instructions to her submarine commanders to treat as warships enemy merchant ships armed "defensively," and that special precautions have been taken to prevent ships that are not armed from being attacked.

Reiterates Pledges.

The note at the outset reiterates the pledges of September 1 and October 5 last year for the safety of unarmed liners, and then says the German government does not believe those assurances have been modified by the new memorandum.

During the negotiations over the Lusitania, it says, no mention was made of armed merchantmen, and that the United States in one of its notes on the Lusitania mentioned unarmed merchantmen.

Attention is called to the assurances privately given in which it is stated liners will not be sunk without warning, provided they do not of themselves become liable to attack to the statement of the American government in its notice to port authorities on board a merchant vessel creates a presumption the vessel is armed for offense.

It is stated that a submarine commander cannot be expected to warn an enemy merchantman, and the German government sets up the contention that equipment and intention to resist a warning given by a submarine does not come within the definition of defensive armament.

Renew Arabic Assurance.

Germany's request to the United States for assurances regarding conduct of submarine warfare in the future is in the hands of Count von Bernstorff, German ambassador, who presented it to Secretary Lansing today.

The ambassador's instructions were to inform the United States that assurances regarding future conduct of submarine warfare given in the Lusitania case are not binding, but they apply only to merchant

ALLIANCE BETWEEN RUSSIA AND JAPAN APPEARS CERTAIN

Closer Union Between Russia and Japan Expected When the War Ends.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Tokio, Feb. 28.—It is believed the war has been ceased for an actual alliance between Russia and Japan as a result of the visit here of the Grand Duke George Michaelovitch, cousin of the Czar. It is likely that the newspapers have exaggerated the number of things that are expected to flow from the event but there are indications that at least a practical understanding will be reached at the conclusion of the war concerning Asiatic Russia and the Far East. References to the closer union between Russia and Japan were contained in the official addresses exchanged last night at the palace where Emperor Yoshihito gave a state dinner in honor of the Grand Duke who came to Tokyo to convey congratulatory coronation greetings to the Czar.

"It is our great satisfaction and pleasure," said Emperor Yoshihito, "to see the sentiments of friendly respect and mutual confidence between our nations daily increasing and growing stronger. We wish your highness to give a state dinner and an enjoyable one and we firmly believe that your highness will personally observe and recognize and friendly sentiments entertained by our nation toward your country and people." The Emperor then presented the Grand Duke with the Grand Order of Merit of the Chrysanthemum and honored the members of his suite with various decorations.

After transmitting the Czar's congratulations, the Grand Duke referred to the great honors paid to Russia and spoke of the friendly attitude and sympathy given by the Japanese nation since the commencement of the war. He went on to say: "I beg to assure your majesty that the immense sympathy and assistance given to our country have caused us to feel an ever-lasting impression in the chronicle of the friendly relations between Japan and Russia."

The Grand Duke presented to the Emperor in behalf of his royal cousin the Grand Order of Saint Andrew decorated with diamonds and bearing the imperial crest carved on a diamond. To the Emperor was presented the First Order of Saint Catherine with fine art work and the imperial crest carved in diamond. These are the highest orders to be found in the Russian court and that presented to the Empress is especially noteworthy because it is the first time that the Empress of Japan has received a decoration from a foreign ruler.

The Russian envoy remains in Japan about two weeks.

The extent of the pro-Russian enthusiasm now pervading Japan is evidenced by the tone of newspapers and other periodicals. Leading dailies appear with editorials welcoming the visit of the Grand Duke and emphasizing the growth of the friendship between the two nations and earnestly express the hope that the understanding now existent will merge into a formal alliance at the closing of the present war. Some journals make the point that the approach of which the Grand Duke's visit is one of the outward and visible signs is a happy illustration of the good that may be done by enlightened policy even after a devastating war. One newspaper remarked that "had Japan's victory in Manchuria been followed by an impossible settlement such as that Germany forced upon France in 1870 the fear of a Russian war of revenge might have dominated Far Eastern politics for many years. Thanks to the tact and wisdom of the statesmen of the two countries such feelings as may have existed diminished constantly and may now be said to have entirely passed away."

The Japanese remarked that although Germany was certain to be defeated she would not be ruined and Japan should see to it that in the great competition to come she has strong friends. Japan's diplomacy should continue to be based upon the principle and spirit embodied in the Anglo-Japanese alliance which should not be altered, but this should not prevent a closer union between Japan and Russia.

Declaring that those who perceive a considerable pro-German feeling in Japan accept irresponsible utterances for the real opinion of the country, Japan Times insists that the heart of Japan is loyal to the Entente allies. "That heart stood by Russia," said the semi-official organ, "while things were going not as satisfactorily as might be last year. That heart will continue to stand by Russia."

The newspaper urged the signing of a pact of alliance as being a desirable opportunity and necessary. It pointed out that ten years, or even less months ago, he would have been styled an over-optimistic and idle speeches as were exchanged at the imperial banquet. It could not have entered the thought of the most zealous enthusiast for a Russo-Japanese alliance, that, before all others, Russia would be the first to send a special envoy with messages of utmost cordiality and friendship in connection with the coronation.

The newspaper concluded: "Japan was feared might draw the sword for Germany and which was imbued with German science and German military achievement turned Russia's staunchest friend, so complete and vital is the identity of Russo-Japanese interests. The imperial speeches are the most eloquent confirmation of the fact."

Reports are current in Tokyo that the United States, Great Britain and other powers will send representatives to the Japanese court to convey messages of congratulation to the Emperor. The foreign office says it knows nothing of the reported visit of an American envoy.

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 28.—This is seed corn week in Iowa. Following a wet, cold summer the corn crop was a partial failure and examination of the seed corn has shown that a surprising amount of it will not germinate. So alarmed are the experts, bankers and agricultural editors that they convinced Gov. Geo. W. Clarke that Iowa faced another bad corn year, this time from a light crop because of poor seed corn, and he has designated this week as "Seed Corn Week" during which every farmer is urged to test his seed corn. In northern Iowa counties it is estimated that at least half of the seed corn is poor and thousands of bushels will be imported from the southwest.

OUT IN WILDERNESS THEY HAVE JACKRABBITS THAT WHIP SHEPHERD DOGS.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Wildrose, N. D., Feb. 28.—Tree eating, dog fighting, thieving rabbits are pestering farmers in this district and hindering agricultural progress, the farmers say. Because shepherd dogs have been whipped in encounters with rabbits, it's becoming difficult to get a dog that will attack them.

WILL RAISE FUNDS FOR MAIMED FRENCH

Thirty Thousand French Soldiers Pleading for Chance to be Educated Says American Woman.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, Feb. 28.—Thirty thousand maimed French soldiers are pleading for work, for the opportunity to be educated to make themselves useful in the labor world of their country. It is announced by Mrs. Edmund Lincoln Baylies, chairman for the organization of the American Committee for Training in Suitable Trades the maimed French soldiers of France. For these 30,000 crippled men, according to Mrs. Baylies, an equal number of positions are being held open by the employers of France, who need these workers. Only the training for these soldiers is lacking to enable them to learn some useful pursuit so that they can serve in shop and factory.

"Build a bridge that will lead him from the hospital over into a normal life," Mrs. Baylies urges, in discussing the maimed soldier of the French Republic. "We have been owing France, through a hundred years for that little matter of first aid in our American Revolution."

The American Committee, which has established headquarters at the Plaza Hotel in the city, regards its task in the light of "charity to be away with the need of charity." It requires from three to six months for one of these war dependents to pass through this period of instruction; the length of time necessary for his tuition depends on the men and his trade—and the cost of his education is only four to five francs a day. One hundred dollars would meet the average of all cases, the committee estimates.

Americans in France contributed $20,000 immediately upon learning of the organization there of a similar committee. Such trades are taught as basket-making, carpentry, glass work, photography, shoemaking, tailoring, instrument-making, watch-making, tinware work, bookbinding, shorthand and typewriting. Unless the multitude of employable men who are being turned loose from the hospitals were taken in charge and their normal life artificially reconstructed, the committee in France foresees a new and ever-increasing dead weight of misery for the Republic.

The committee in France knew of one soldier who, having lost an arm while fighting on the Marne, drifted from shop to shop in search of a chance to support himself and, turned away because he knew no trade which he could follow with his one arm, shot himself. It is to avert such tragedies as these that the American committee headed by Mrs. Baylies is laboring.

The maimed ones who are being taught trades under the direction of the committee in France divide their profits in full when they have reached the stage of production, with those pupils which are only beginning to learn.

Lessons in heating economy

Have you a home that will give you daily and nightly recuperation, so you can return vigorously to your business duties or rise to new ones? Associations of bankers are agreed that the business man or farmer should set aside part of the money he annually borrows and invest it in practical improvements for the home. A sanitary, cozily warmed house is the best insurance that the man is a good risk—that he will succeed.

"The surest loans we make are on radiator heated buildings. They are always so easily rentable and salable."

AMERICAN & IDEAL RADIATORS & BOILERS

These outfits make property sell or rent quicker and at a profit. Every room in the house is heated with less care-taking than required to run one stove for one room, and millions of dollars have been saved in reduced fuel bills by the users of IDEAL-AMERICAN heating.

A No. 2-22-W IDEAL Boiler and 461 ft. of 3/4-in. AMERICAN Radiators, costing the owner $225, were used to heat this cottage. At this price the goods can be bought of any reputable, competent fitter. This did not include cost of labor, pipe, valves, fittings, etc., which are extra and vary according to climatic and other conditions.

The most important question to settle about an old or new building is the heating. IDEAL heating has answered this question for hundreds of thousands of house-owners for over twenty-five years, and as an investment it is permanent and will command a good price even after the owner has enjoyed its comfort and savings for many years.

A little larger first investment over cost of a cheap heating equipment can be quickly overcome by omitting extra inner doors, chimneys, mantels, storm sash, weather strips, etc. You might better increase your borrowing at the bank, for the fuel and other savings that IDEAL heating will give you will make money for you far beyond the bank interest you have to pay.

Send at once for our (free) book "Ideal Heating," which gives most valuable information. Puts you under no obligation to buy.

REPORT DISCOVERY OF FOSSIL OF A DRAGON GETS CHINESE ALL EXCITED.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Peking, Feb. 28.—Superstitious Chinese have recently been greatly excited by rumors which are spreading throughout the Republic concerning the discovery of the fossil of a dragon five hundred feet long in a pre-historic cave at Ichang in Szechuan province. The Chamber of Commerce at Ichang, members of the schools and prominent citizens memorialized the Central Government on the subject, saying: "Now a monarch has arisen like a dragon, and the foundation for a dynasty of ten thousand years is to be laid. The fossil of a divine dragon has appeared in the regions along the Yangtze river. It is a symbol of the protection of heaven and the joy of the people. It is therefore requested that telegram be sent to the throne to bring to the notice of the public the discovery of the stone dragon at Ichang, and the fact referred to the Bureau of History to have it recorded for the information of posterity. Thus the signs of heaven for prosperity of the nation will be appreciated and the desires of the people will be fulfilled."

The memorial was widely printed throughout China, and attracted very much attention, especially among the uneducated persons. In an effort to refute the rumor that the government was responsible for the circulation of this story in such a general manner, the President issued a mandate discounting all attempts to capitalize superstition and urging the public to bring about general enlightenment.

BUSINESS MEN BACK LABORERS' FACTORY; $2,000 IN 2 HOURS

TRACTOR ENGINE PLANT BOOSTERS MEET WONDERFUL SUCCESS IN CANVASS DURING MORNING.

Finance Committee Expects Entire Sum for Building Will Be Pledged Tomorrow at Noon.

Two thousand dollars in two hours' time this morning featured the initial campaign of the financial committee of the Builders' Exchange, bent on establishing a new industry in Janesville, the manufacture of farm tractors. This sum constitutes over one-half of the amount to be collected, five thousand dollars, which is to be used for building purposes.

Janesville business interests combined this morning with Janesville laboring classes to make the venture a success, and this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, when the total was made known at the meeting of the committee, it proved a complete surprise to all.

All Not Visited. In the short while in which the committee had to work during the morning it was not expected that the amount would reach any such total, but their strenuous efforts, however, manifested by the laboring people, with announcements that contributors of every description were to donate material gratis and a well planned campaign which gave publicity to the project an hour after the deal was closed, proved good drawing cards and arguments for subscriptions.

During the two hour period in which the committee worked this morning they did not cover the entire business district with their canvass. It was expected that almost a similar amount was to be obtained from their work during the afternoon.

Subscriptions ranged all the way from ten dollars up to amounts considerably in excess of one hundred dollars. The laboring men with small contributions were welcomed fully as much as the merchant and business man able to contribute a greater sum.

The fact that the proposition is backed by the laboring classes as well as by the business men, is indicative of the success, according to a member of the finance committee today.

The committee announced that a subscription list would be left at the People's Drug company and that any persons desirous of making a contribution who had not been visited by the committee, could leave their money there.

Members of the committee this morning told of numerous incidents which pointed to the success of the financing the engine factory. An innovation which is expected to be of much help was the suggestion made by two different people in different lines of labor, it was to the effect that employees of the various factories and stores get together and form a pool, the total to be advanced to the committee. One of the suggestions came from one of the largest grocery establishments of the city and the other from another business house employee. Joseph Denning, a member of the finance committee, thought the idea fully worthy of consideration, and it was expected that the plan would be worked out shortly.

Another member found a young lady in a business house who had heart and soul for the proposition but felt that all she could afford to contribute was fifty cents. It was accepted with as much profuse thanks as any of the larger amounts.

On the other hand, the plan for free labor and material, there were also incidents related. One member arrived back at his office at noon and found the Builders' Exchange could not find him to furnish several days' work on the factory without charges. A mason came to a committee member this morning and also said his work for several days when the factory was started would be gratis.

Building Details. Members of the Builders' Exchange tonight will hold a special meeting. They expect nothing to do with the financial end of the factory matter. It is called for the purpose of compiling full information and lists of those firms, contractors, carpenters, masons, plumbers and others who have signified their intention of building the factory free. It is to complete these lists and show the committee just what they can count upon and for what what they will do for free.

After this matter is finished the preparatory work and division of labor for the building will be scheduled. This will entail a complete schedule of the building progress of the new factory at an even pace in the way that a single contractor who is building with his work and erection.

Frank P. Cronin, of finance committee at noon today said that expectations that the five thousand dollars goal would be attained at noon Tuesday. The committee expected to have the greater share of the canvass of the downtown business district completed by midnight. Tomorrow morning any remaining section which has not been visited will be covered by the committee.

Indications at noon today were that at least three hundred will be present at the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday evening at the first annual banquet of Rock County Rod and Gun club. At that time President Green announced that two hundred and eighty tickets had been disposed of and that an almost constant call for more was being made.

The early success of the meeting was due to the fact that the banquet attendance figures are to be broken Wednesday evening with even a greater gathering present than at the banquet of the church brotherhoods when George Phillips was the attraction and the guest of honor.

That more reservations than those already made are necessary was the charge today. The committee in charge, accordingly, a meeting was held this afternoon to decide on the advisability of the suggestion to put in another table with accommodations and places for at least fifty guests.

The report of the committee for reservations during Friday and Saturday this morning seems to make this necessary. The committee was scheduled to reach a decision this afternoon.

Even without the extra tickets it is found necessary today to order more game. President Green sent to Madison for thirty pounds more of fish.

Lawrence C. Whitte of Edgerton, are to be present. Prof. Wagner of the university is scheduled for the principal address of the evening.

TAFT WILL BE HERE ON MARCH FIFTEENTH TO GIVE AN ADDRESS

Commercial Club Makes Arrangements for Former President's Coming to Janesville.

At the regular Monday meeting of the Commercial club directed by the Grand Hotel this noon, final arrangements were completed for the address to be given here by Judge William H. Taft, former president of the United States, on March 15th. Judge Taft is to speak in Milwaukee and Chicago on the following two days and will come to Janesville direct from the Commercial club. He has famous address on "International Peace," a subject at this time most important to this country. W. H. Dougherty is chairman of the committee having charge of the speech which will be given in the Myers Theatre in the evening.

The directors also took up the matter of the re-opening of the Rock County Sugar company's factory and the Commercial club has elected from Captain James Davidson was read explaining the situation.

Bay City, Michigan, February 26th, 1916. The Commercial Club, Janesville, Wis.

Gentlemen:—We have your favor of the 24th inst., and replying to same will state that we have been working very hard with the seed people in Germany, Russia, as well as with the authorities at Washington, in regard to getting the seed we have contracted through our sugar factories, and although a small portion of our seed is now on the way here from Russia, we are advised that it is very doubtful if this seed will arrive in time for this season's planting. For that reason I have given up the idea of sowing the sugar beet plant this year.

All of the sugar factories in California, Michigan and Wisconsin are getting very anxious, and it is very hard to get any satisfaction in regard to the seed. It is being shipped in round about way at a great expense, and while some of it may arrive in time, yet a very large amount of it will not get here in time for this season's planting. We wish to thank you for your letters and the efforts you have put forward in behalf of the Rock County Sugar company.

Yours truly, JAMES DAVISON.

It was also decided to raise a thousand dollars to continue the work of the community co-operation work, the county Y. M. C. A., and the good roads and fire department.

Discussion as to the work for the coming year was then taken up and it was decided to broaden the scope of the club materially so as to give all members a part in the activities. The following committee chairman were then named by President J. A. Craig: Civic and public welfare, A. F. Lovejoy; development survey, R. M. Bostwick; community cooperation, R. Wisner; legislative, T. S. Nolan; retail committee, Amos Rehberg; marketing, J. B. Cullen; finance, Wm. McVicar; membership, George E. King; good roads and street cleaning, C. F. Farwell; promotion, W. H. Dougherty; insurance, O. S. Morse; public meetings, John H. Jones; industrial, M. O. Mount; traffic, J. K. Jensen; purchases, T. O. Howe; and publicity, H. H. Bliss.

The advisory board is composed of George S. Parker, Edward Amerphol, Louis Levy, Joseph Connors, H. H. Bliss, S. F. Felt, and C. F. Farwell. The executive committee is composed of J. A. Craig, O. S. Morse, M. O. Mount, A. P. Lovejoy, R. E. Wisner.

UNABLE TO EXPLAIN IF TURK KILLED HIMSELF OR WAS VICTIM OF A PLOT.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE] London, Feb. 28.—Whether Yussuf Izzeddin, late heir to the throne of Turkey, really committed suicide recently, as was officially announced in Constantinople, or was assassinated, is something nobody here expects ever to know. Yussuf is well known to have been pro-ally in his sympathies. Naturally this made the German government also somewhat interested in the case.

With the European war's outbreak, however, his pro-ally views resulted in a violent break between himself and Enver Pasha, the Young Turk leader, who have been long strongly pro-German. The story is even told that he and Enver exchanged shots as the climax to a quarrel between the two.

The Turkish throne, the descendant in a direct line, from father to son, but when a sultan dies, passes to the eldest male representative of the present sultan's cousin. With his death, Yussuf Izzeddin, born in 1891, a younger brother of the sultan, became heir apparent. He, too, is pro-ally.

SYNOPSIS.

Little Helen Holmes, daughter of General Holmes, railroad man, is rescued from imminent danger on a scenic railroad by George Storm, a new boy. Grown to young womanhood Helen saves Storm, now a woman, her father and his friend, Amos Rhineland, financier, and Robert Seagrove, promoter, from a threatened explosion. Each breaks the enemy plans from the cut-off line for the Tidewater, finally saving the general and escape. Her father's estate badly involved by his death, Helen goes to work on the Tidewater. Seagrove uses Spike to set fire to powder train hauled by Storm's engine. Helen saves Storm from a horrible death. Helen recovers the general and plans from Seagrove, and though they are taken from her, Rhineland accidentally made proof of the survey blue print. Storm, employed by Rhineland, wins a fight with Seagrove's men for possession of a consignment of railroad ties.

SIXTH INSTALLMENT

HELEN'S WILD RIDE.

Helen spied him the minute she stepped inside Rhineland's hut to deliver the telegram—a small, fluffy bundle of black and white, lying curled up tightly on Rhineland's cot, as if it was the haven of warmth and refuge so long sought. "Where," demanded Helen of Rhineland, and emphasizing each word in amazement, "did you get that dear, little dog?"

"That dear, little dog," explained Rhineland, with corresponding emphasis, "is the last addition to my already overburdened pay roll."

"What's his name?" demanded Helen in delight, "but him on?"

"He just got hold with his teeth and hung on. He blew into camp the other day, the tiredest, orneriest, hungriest-looking cur you ever saw. Some morning party lost him, probably."

Rhineland reread his telegram: Rhineland.

Monthly pay roll on No. 4. H. "Say, this is news; best I've had this week. The pay roll is overdue three days and these Greeks and Mexicans are a suspicious bunch. What's your hurry?" he asked as Helen made ready to go.

"I must run," said Helen. "I'm alone this morning."

"Don't be in a rush; I'm going over that way myself," returned Rhineland, picking up his hat. "The pup will keep house a few minutes."

Leaving the hut door open, Rhineland, accompanied by Helen, started for the station. Two good comrades, as well as devoted friends, Helen and he laughed and joked along their way.

"Thieves Took the Pay Roll. They Are on This Train!"

watched from the farther end of the camp by Spike, who, disgraced, chafed, half in hiding, awaiting some opportunity for mischief to turn up—something that would release from honest idleness.

It was to be an irony of fate that now made of the homeless dog an instrument to serve the purpose of the restless criminal. The puppy, alone, in the tent, refreshed by his nap, invigorated by his breakfast, and impelled, Rhineland would have said, by the devil, looked about for something to interest him. Seizing the telegram in his sharp teeth, the dog started to tear it to pieces. At that juncture an inquisitive squirrel, pausing before the open door, peered sharply into the hut.

To the dog, this looked like a formal challenge. He was so overcome by the impudence of it that he sprang from the table, forgetting to put the telegram back where it belonged. Away he dashed, telegram in teeth, after the squirrel.

There was but a single spectator of this dash—the brooding Spike. As the dog tore past Spike the telegram dropped from his mouth almost at the convict's feet, and idly picking the paper up Spike opened and read it: Rhineland.

Signal: Monthly pay roll on No. 4. Brief though the message was, it contained enough news to arouse Spike.

Casting only a glance in the direction of the fleeing dog, Spike, clutching his find, hurried toward Seagrove's camp and lost no time in covertly showing him the message, without explaining how it had fallen into his hands.

Seagrove, reading the telegram, saw the moment he looked at Spike, what was in the convict's mind.

AGED WHITWATER RESIDENT PASSES TO WORLD BEYOND

Hon. N. M. Littlejohn, Age Ninety-Three Years Is Called by Death.

Whitewater, Feb. 28.—Hon. N. M. Littlejohn passed away at his home on Main street last evening at 10 o'clock at the age of ninety-three years. The cause of death was paralysis of the bowels. Until a few days ago he had been up and around the house and recently attended Masonic lodge at which he gave part of the lectures. His advanced age made it impossible to operate or secure much relief from treatments. A wonderful will power gave a practical demonstration of mind over body and kept him alive. Mr. Littlejohn has been well known throughout the state and especially in Masonic circles. He was a thirty-third degree Mason and has served as Grand Master of the Grand Lodge. From 1864 to 1869 he served the state in the capacity of State Senator. Many offices of public trust has he held in this city. Arrangements for the funeral have not been decided on.

Word was received here this morning of the death of Luther O. Robinson in Milwaukee on Sunday. The deceased made his home here several years ago and was the father of Henry Robinson, who was in the restaurant here many years, but is now in California. The body will be brought here for burial.

William Knacht died suddenly at Elkhorn on Saturday. He had a slight cold but otherwise appeared to be in good health. He was fifty-three years of age and was born in this city. The deceased was employed in the local brewery nearly all his life until last fall when he was stricken with illness. The arrangements for the burial have not been completed but the body was brought here Sunday and interment will be at Hillside cemetery.

Personal: Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Bloodgood spent Saturday in Milwaukee.

William Knacht and Co. C. played a fast rough game of basketball here Saturday evening at the armory with the visitors a bit out of class. The first half ended 14 to 7 in favor of the locals. In the second half Ludtke took the place of Jamieson at center for Co. C and made six field goals. There was a dance after the game.

Miss Jennie Lindeman is visiting her sisters in Milwaukee this week. George Gill was here from Plattville over Sunday.

Eugene Tyrrell of Milwaukee spent Saturday with his father. Mr. Law of Chicago died suddenly at the Wheeler hospital here Saturday. He came here a few days ago interested in a real estate deal and was taken sick and died at the hospital where he died. The body is at the Coppins undertaking parlors until word is received from relatives.

The well-known Gordon homestead on the corner of Main and Price streets is being torn down. The present owner, Fred Messerschmidt, intends to remodel the barn and house into summer dwellings that will accommodate several families.

Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Blackman have adopted a little girl. Mrs. Blackman went to Chicago last week and brought the infant with her. The Spencer Fish has taken the room over the Commercial & Savings bank, formerly occupied by the Badger Railway Co.

Miss Nellie White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grant White, has taken position in the city schools at Madison. She graduated from the Normal school in January.

The O'Neil company is putting up another big oil tank in this city.

Mrs. R. K. Hoe left Saturday for Chicago to attend the funeral of her son, Miss O. Harstad, who passed away on Wednesday following an attack of brain fever. The deceased made an annual visit here for many years.

Prof. G. C. Shutt has converted his residence into a double house, the east wing of which will soon be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. M. Schmidt.

Mrs. Sarah Baker of Malta Bend, Mo. is visiting her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Higgins.

The basketball game between the Palmyra high school and the local high school at the armory Saturday evening resulted in a defeat for the visitors by a score of 38 to 10. The first half ended 18 to 0 in favor of the locals.

Signal: Monthly pay roll on No. 4. Brief though the message was, it contained enough news to arouse Spike.

Casting only a glance in the direction of the fleeing dog, Spike, clutching his find, hurried toward Seagrove's camp and lost no time in covertly showing him the message, without explaining how it had fallen into his hands.

Seagrove, reading the telegram, saw the moment he looked at Spike, what was in the convict's mind.

SOCIAL SERVICE WORK IN JAPAN BY AMERICANS.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Tokio, Feb. 28.—Modern social service in which prominent features of leading American institutions have been adopted for the first time to meet Japanese needs will form a distinctive work of a new Baptist church dedicated yesterday. The building was erected by the American Baptist Foreign Mission Society. The church which is known as the Tokyo Misaki Tabernacle has been organized for Japanese people.

The services of a competent legal advisor, given free to the poor of the community, is a feature of the program that is new in Japan and is a step in advance of the social service of American cities where the need of such service is less acute. Among the other features planned are a society for young men, neighborhood visiting work for competent nurses, welfare work for apprentices, a work for working girls, a playground for children, a nursery for infants whose mothers are compelled to work away from home during the day. A free children's clinic may be added if a survey of the community and the shape of the church's finances make it advisable.

The missionary in charge is Rev. William Axling and the pastor is the Rev. R. Nakajima, a Japanese.

The church has retained Mr. Nakajima, a brother of the pastor, as a legal lawyer to give his services to the poor of the community. According to Mr. Axling the need of free legal advice is one of the pressing needs of the lower classes of Tokyo. "There are a number of poor people who get into legal difficulties and who have no money to engage a reliable lawyer," he said. "Such people are at the mercy of the unscrupulous, far as I know, this is a feature not included in the program of any of the social centers and I know of only one precedent in Japan. A few years ago the Salvation Army conducted a free legal bureau in the Kanda district."

Mr. and Mrs. Axling returned to Japan in December after spending more than a year in the United States during which they visited the leading centers of social settlement work in Chicago, New York, Boston and San Francisco.

OVER HUNDRED THOUSAND TAKE PLACE OF MALE IN INDUSTRIAL EMPLOYMENTS.

London, Feb. 28.—Over 100,000 women up to now have taken the places of men in British industrial life, releasing as many men for service in the army. These figures have been compiled by the statistical department of the Board of Trade and fall short of the correct total, as many firms have not yet made their returns. The figures show a marked increase in the number of women in factories, which they never entered before the war, and work metal lathes and drills quite like old hands.

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND

by DAISY DEAN

Constance Collier, who showed her ability as a screen actress in "The Tongues of Men," is working on her second photoplay, "The Code of the West," written for her by Frank Lloyd. In the cast are Forrest Stanley and Harry DeWitt. Director Lloyd is sparing neither pains nor expense to obtain proper backgrounds, and several magnificent interiors have been built. Recently when Miss Collier, Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree and Herbert Standing, all famous on the English stage, met at the studios, the discovery was made that while Sir Herbert gave Miss Collier her first chance, he had obtained his first part through Standing's influence.

MILDRED GREGORY IN "ACCORDING TO LAW"

Mildred Gregory, at one time leading woman for Romanine Fielding, has now taken her place as a leading woman with the casting of "According to the Law."

Miss Gregory's latest work on the screen is in "According to the Law," although not the leading woman in this production, she has a part which fully demonstrates her skill.

"According to the Law," takes Miss Gregory as the heroine through the divorce court when a word or a look from her husband would have saved years of suffering.

Many of the scenes of this photoplay are being made in the Everglades of Florida. According to the "Law" will be a March release.

An aspirant to histrionic fame has recently appeared in the form of a huge,inky black "colored" gentleman. He applied to Director Barry O'Neil for a job as an extra.

"Sorry," replied the director after looking the applicant over, "I couldn't possibly use you—this is a night scene."

Robert Mantell is working in the second picture to be enacted in the company of which he is the star. It is a story whose scenes are laid in Italy, India and France, and includes in its personnel Genevieve Hammer, Stuart Holmes, Claire Whitney, Henry Leone, William Constance Collier.

Violet Mercereau no longer is called the youngest leading lady of the movies. That title passes to a fourteen-year-old who has a birth record in indelible ink to prove her claim. She's Edith Roberts.

AT THE APOLLO.

"The Eternal City" as a Benefit for the Hospital.

Thousands who read Hall Caine's novel, "The Eternal City," and saw the picturization of the story when it was shown here, will be able to go again to the Apollo theatre to see it for the second time, which will be presented there on Tuesday for the benefit of Mercy Hospital. The pictures were taken by the Famous Players Film Company, and the star of the company which enacted the romance before the camera is Miss Pauline Frederick, appearing as Donna Roma. The pictures of Rome, showing the Vatican, the Coliseum and the Forum rank with the best screen photographs shown, and the mob scenes and the charging of the Roman soldiers are thrilling, an unusual artistic touch is the opening tableau showing a view of Rome, with the moon setting behind the dome of St. Peter's.

The film version has more of the thrills of the original and the dramatic action is kept as it was in the novel. Miss Frederick, as Donna Roma, is excellent in her portrayal, while her beauty charms the eye.

AT THE PRINCESS.

Bessie Barriscale Star of "The Golden Claw."

Bessie Barriscale stars in "The Golden Claw," a play of business and society, which will show at the Princess theatre tonight and Tuesday. Truly Shattuck, as the mother of the heroine, Miss Barriscale, appeals as the woman of society, who lives away beyond her means. She is shown surrounded by creditors, to whom she repeats oft told promises of payment for gowns and jewelry. Afterward Miss Shattuck meets Miss Barriscale and tells her of her annoyance on account of strained circumstances. She induces the girl to believe that money is the most important thing in the world and that she must marry a man of wealth.

At a week end in the country Miss Barriscale meets Frank Mills, who plays the part of a wealthy young man. Mills refuses to believe that Miss Barriscale is simply seeking a partner of wealth. She marries Mills. Then comes the loss of his wealth through the failure of a mine.

Mills tells Miss Barriscale of his ruin, and she bitterly reproaches him for not having kept his agreement to provide all the luxuries of life. This goads him to seek to renew his former position, and by lucky deals he is able to restore himself to wealth.

Then comes a bitter fight in Wall street between Frank Mills and Wedgewood Nowell, which ends in the bankruptcy of Mills.

Miss Barriscale refuses to give Mills $50,000 to aid him, although it had been a gift to her from her husband. Her motive, however, was to get him away from the career that had made him a money mad financier and to win back to herself the man that he was when she married him. In this aim she happily succeeds.

Man and Flight.

Mathematicians have calculated that man is too heavy ever to be sustained in air by the power of his own muscles, no matter how large the wings are which he fastens to his body. The weight limit is probably approached by the largest birds, such as the Australian crane, which still flies, although it weighs about twenty pounds. The ostrich long ago gave up all hope of winging its way through the air. An aeroplane can be built, say the experts, which will sustain a man and use but three horsepower, but as the best athletes can exert only a maximum of about two horsepower for fifteen seconds at a time he will always be dependent on a machine.

"A PAIR OF SIXES" IS CLEVER COMEDY

Famous Laugh-producing Show Presented at Myers Theatre and Enjoyed by Everyone Who Witnessed It.

"A Pair of Sixes," the farce which New York Critics declared to be the funniest play ever seen on the New York stage and which ran for an entire year at the Longacre Theatre, New York, was presented at the Myers Theatre, Saturday, Feb. 26, matinee and evening, by a company of well known actors, each of whom has appeared at one time or another in the New York production. It is in three acts. The author is Edward Pease, who has already won a high place among American dramatists by his other great successes, "The Prince Chap," and "The Little Rebel." He has written an amusing story and developed it through three acts of the most amazing comic situations and in a spirit of fun that never lags.

The plot deals with two partners, who disagree as to their relative importance in the conduct of a prosperous patent medicine business, and they decide, after much squabbling and irritation to sever their business interests. But their partnership agreement does not provide for any method by which they can end their relations. Their lawyer is called in, but they decide his various business ideas, and he finally suggests the inexpensive method of playing a show-down poker hand to see which of the partners will have control of the business, as well as the direction of the other partner's affairs. A pair of sixes wins, and the winner obtains the services of his partner, as a butler in his household for one year, under an ironclad agreement by which an order of explanation shall be made, nor an order violated, without the payment of so many fines that the loser would be bankrupt. After the butler is installed in his new position, he is almost driven frantic by a homely old cockney housemaid, who pursues him with her attentions. To make matters worse, his sweetheart arrives as a guest in the house. He cannot explain for fear of the fines, which would sacrifice his interest in the business, and the wife of the winner sympathizes so openly with the unlucky partner, that her husband becomes jealous. This amusing condition of affairs develops the most hilarious fun and twisted situations, which are finally straightened out through the cleverness of the loser's sweetheart, who ultimately plays the winning hand.

FOODS THEY BUILD OR DESTROY

Amazing but rarely suspected truths about the things you eat.

By ALFRED W. McCANN (Copyright, 1916, by Alfred W. McCann.)

Food materials are so essential to life and health that when the body is deprived of them or fails to find the minimum of any one of them disease inevitably follows.

The simplest boy in the laboratory can be made to understand the wonderful oxidizing property of sulphuric acid. When this acid is generated in the human body, as it is generated every day, it is immediately neutralized by the alkali bases of the blood, under normal conditions, never fails to provide for that purpose.

Phosphoric acid is also generated in the body and neutralized in the same manner. Calcium, magnesium, and potassium are among these alkaline bases provided by natural foods. If they are not present to do their work within a short time the destructive action of the sulphuric and phosphoric acids can and only in despair.

A few drops of sulphuric acid taken into the body from a bottle will produce death, by attacking the tissues, oxidizing and destroying them. When food, from which the minerals have been removed by commercial processes or by foolish methods of cooking, is introduced into the body, the results are the same. The body is starved for free sulphuric acid from the albumenoid subunit and of free phosphoric acid from the many complex phosphoric compounds found normally in meat, cheese, eggs, and other articles of diet.

These acids, in the absence of the alkaline bases that ought to be present, must be neutralized as rapidly as they are generated. If this neutralization is not effected, the acids will be in the urine as discarded waste products in the form of sulphates and phosphates.

When the neutralizing bases have been removed from food before it is consumed these acids abstract basic elements from the living tissues, thereby impairing or destroying them. Meat, which is rich in minerals, for a few hours in distilled water loses its potassium, magnesium, and calcium salts. It also loses its color. If cooked in this condition it will be found to be tasteless. If fed to animals, which eat of other animals, these animals will eat a little, then refuse to take more, and if fed on nothing else will actually die more quickly than animals that are not fed at all.

This can be accounted for not only through the generation of the free sulphuric and phosphoric acids in the bodies of the animals but also by another factor.

The animals fed on the demineralized meat, in addition to being deprived of the food materials indispensable to life's processes, are also obliged to dissipate their reserve vitality at a rapid rate through the efforts of their organs to throw off the useless and dangerous food elements imposed on them; whereas the animal that is starved outright is stronger, calmer, and more vigorous.

The entertainment was given by the Orfordville Choral Union, assisted by Fred Debauber of Milwaukee as reader. While this was the initial entertainment of the newly organized chorus, it demonstrated the fact that the village possesses some most excellent talent.

The musical part of the program consisted of solos, duets, trios, quartets and octets, with several selections by the entire chorus of fifty voices. Rev. O. J. Kvale has been the leader of the company since its organization and the success achieved on Friday evening shows not only the wisdom of the selection but makes it evident that as a leader he possesses special qualifications.

Mr. Debauber's selections entertained and delighted his audience, which repeatedly recalled him. His impersonations of the faithful boy, the bachelor, and the struggling young author were natural in the extreme.

In coming to Orfordville Mr. Debauber feels that he is among friends, he having been born in the village.

RUSSIA'S NEW PREMIER GAINING POPULAR FAVOR.

Petrograd, Feb. 28.—Russia's new premier, M. Sturmer, is making a good impression. His appointment as M. Goremykin's successor was a surprise. He is 68 and has passed his whole life in government offices. Those who knew him regarded him simply as a bureaucrat. The public knew him hardly at all. He was understood to be a close friend of Goremykin. This was not a favorable advertisement for him. Nevertheless, Sturmer's initial statement of his policy was well received. Evidently he did not want to be considered a reactionary. He spoke in friendly terms of the duma and hinted that he expects it to take an active part in affairs when it resumes its session late in February or in March. Of the war he said: "We must win. There can be no talk of separate peace for us, nor can the threat of exhaustion alarm us. How can this great country, so rich naturally and every day discovering fresh treasures, be exhausted?" If words count, it is the growing opinion that the new premier will be a success.

If you want work or need help of any kind use the want ads.

LABOR IN ENGLAND WILL HAVE ITS SAY WHEN PEACE IS RESTORED TO EUROPE.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE) London, Feb. 28.—The belief that labor will figure extensively in British government councils when peace is restored in Europe is gaining ground steadily. "After the war is over," said Lord Denman, for example, in an address in the house of peers, "labor is bound to play a very prominent part in the political life of this country. It is possible that a labor government or a government largely composed of labor men will be in power." The ex-governor-general of Australia qualified his prediction with the remark that "if labor men now fail to rise to the full height of their responsibilities and to realize that they are Englishmen first and trade unionists second, and if they hamper administration of the military compulsion act, it seems to me their advent to power will be delayed for many years."

Marrying for Money

By MRS. EVA LEONARD

The Younger Townsends Wonder What Their Visitor Will Be Like.

"Well, I have good news," announced Ortrude Townsend at the dinner table. Her husband looked up quickly to indicate his interest in her conversation. "I have a letter from a very attractive young cousin of mine, and she says she is coming to make me a visit next month."

"You will enjoy that," was Jacob's only remark. Marian and Dudley exchanged glances.

"I do hope there will be something going on while she is here," continued Ortrude.

"I should like to give her a good time. She is not much older than Marian. I am sure you will enjoy her," she added, turning to the girl.

Marian indicated with a toss of the head that she would forego that pleasure.

"I shall give a party to introduce her to the young people of the town."

"School begins next week and everybody will be busy," blurted out Marian.

"Oh, there will be time on Friday and Saturday nights for some party," Ortrude looked at Marian with a slight sneer on her face. "Dudley will not be so rushed that he cannot help entertain the young lady. I know. Ortrude looked inquiringly at the young man.

"You must remember that I am a business man and have few evenings to myself," replied Dudley, and Marian telegraphed her gratitude to her brother for following her lead.

"I think when you see her you will be willing to devote some time to making her visit pleasant." Ortrude realized that her only chance of obtaining the help of the young people was through conciliatory means, so she produced her best manner and most gratifying smile.

Jacob's heart died within him as he realized that there was a fine chance for more friction. The meal was finished in silence.

"Well, if my lady imagines that I am going to help her entertain her fair cousin she is very much mistaken," said Marian angrily when they were alone. "My crop is just as full of the Blackly tribe as it will hold as it is. I wonder if this is the daughter of the bankrupt. I understand her father's brother failed in business."

"I should think bankrupts would be rather plentiful in their family if all the members could make the money fly like the specimen we had foisted on," Dudley's tone was bitter.

"I shall spend my time down at the den over the store, and she will not see me except at meal time," Marian bobbed her head with emphasis.

"I wonder if she is as much of a dresser as our member of the family," remarked Dudley.

"If she isn't, she will be before she goes," answered Marian savagely.

"Meaning that poor Daddy will be called upon to foot the bills for an elaborate wardrobe for her." Fierce resentment was in her tone.

"Surely," exclaimed Dudley, but he looked worried.

"You see if I am not right. Why not? It costs her nothing and anything she can wring from that husband of hers is clean gain." Marian caught her hat and followed Dudley down the walk.

"I know why she has sent for her," she looked sly into her brother's face.

"What?"

"She thinks she can fix her talons into you; that all the Townsends are east; at least those of the masculine gender."

Dudley put back his head and laughed. "My, but you have an imagination." He pinched her cheek. (To be continued.)

Heart and Home PROBLEMS

By—
MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON
Letters may be addressed to
MRS. THOMPSON
In care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a girl twenty years old and have been going with a young man for over two years. He is twenty-two years old. Do you think he is too old for me to marry?

(2) Do you think a girl of sixteen years is too young to go to dances? How should she stay?

(3) Is it all right for a girl to correspond with a boy who has never seen her?

(4) When a girl goes with a boy and then quit, should she return his letters and presents?

(5) If my boy friend comes to see me on Saturday night and stays until Sunday, is all right for him to go to his house and stay until Monday evening?

(6) Is it all right to make a date with a boy and then meet him on the street at a certain place and time?

(7) How often should a girl write to a boy whom she sees every two or three days?

(8) Is it all right for a girl to give a boy friend one of her pictures? If she does should she have one of his?

BROWN-EYED BABY DOLL.
(1) There is not too much difference in your ages, but I think you are too young to consider marriage.

(2) A girl of sixteen is too young to go to dances at night.

(3) It depends upon the nature of the letters and presents. If she has said things in her letters that would make her want them back, she should return them. If the presents are valuable they should be returned.

(4) If you and the boy are engaged it is all right for him to stay at your house and for you to visit him provided you receive the invitation from his mother.

(5) It is not proper to meet a boy on the street. Have him call for you at your home.

(6) Once is enough. Most people who see each other so often do not write at all.

(7) A girl should not give a boy her picture unless for a reason. It is best to keep it until she is married. If she does give him a picture, I presume she would like to have one of his, but there is no law of propriety demanding that she should.

BRIGHT EYES.
(1) I am fourteen years old and in the first year at high school. Is it right for a girl to go machine riding with a boy?

(2) Is it proper for a girl to let a boy kiss her if he is the only one she cares for?

(3) What should a girl do if a boy forces a kiss on her and she doesn't want to get into a scrap with him, because she likes him very much?

BRIGHT EYES.
(1) A girl of your age should not go machine riding with a boy.

(2) A girl should not let a boy kiss her because he is the only one she cares for. She is likely to care for some one else later. The safest way is to wait until she is engaged.

(3) A girl is more likely to lose a boy by permitting him to kiss her than by not. She should not give him an opportunity and if he finds one he should be more careful not to give him a chance the next time they are together.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: What should a girl of eighteen wear for mourning?

M. G.
I don't think a girl of eighteen should wear mourning. Some girls put on with touches of white to relieve the severity of black suit, white waist and hat of black and white combined.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Please tell me what is good for chapped lips.

(2) Please suggest a good present for a schoolmate who is going to move.

SNOW BALLS.
(1) Camphorated oil is excellent for chapped lips. It is very inexpensive.

(2) A book, picture, a brass desk piece, or something in leather such as a pocket book or table mat.

COOKING IS HOBBY OF PRIMA DONNA

Miss Florence MacCulloch.

Cooking is the hobby of Miss Florence MacCulloch, prima donna, whose home is in Detroit. She says she would rather be fussing around over a hot stove in the kitchen than be engaged in any of the other pastimes in which most prima donnas delight.

Household Hints

TO WASH COMFORTERS.
Many a woman has almost broken her back trying to wring heavy comforters. After washing them, hang them on the line and let drain. Then, before they are quite dry, take a switch and switch them lightly. It will revive the cotton and make them much fluffier. They will seem like new.

HOMEMADE HARD SOAP.
Try this and save more than one-half on soap.

Put in a crock one can lye. Pour one quart water. Let cool.

Melt one-half cup borax in water. Mix one-half cup each kerosene and ammonia together.

Have a clean stick.

Pour in the cooled lye, then the ammonia and oil and borax, stirring with the stick until all is well blended.

Pour into a strong cold box. Twenty-four hours cut in squares, having almost three dollars' worth of soap for a few cents.

THE TABLE.
Corn Meal Rolls—Sift together all these dry ingredients: One and one-half cups flour, three-fourths cup corn meal, one tablespoon sugar, four teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt. Sift together twice.

Beat one egg well into one-half cup butter into the dry ingredients. Pour in milk and egg. Roll out, cut into round cakes, brush over with melted butter or drippings, fold together, brush with a little buttermilk with a little soda dissolved.

Sour Rod of Beef—This is a delicious old German recipe. Make a sour brine by taking one quart water and one quart vinegar and salt and pepper. Slice into this a few carrots, carrots, Now add sirloin roast of beef. Allow meat to remain in brine over night. Next day remove beef from brine and prepare for roasting as usual. While baking, baste occasionally with clear hot water. When half roasted add vegetables removed from the brine. A little later add one-half of the brine in which beef soaked over night. When meat is a tender, remove from roaster and make a gravy by adding one-half cup of sour cream and enough flour to thicken. Serve hot, cutting beef in thin slices with gravy poured over it. If you wish to decorate this delicious dish, sprinkle cut-up capers over it.

Cabbage Balls—Take medium-sized head of cabbage (not too solid), put in kettle of water, let boil a few minutes to soften. Cut cabbage into two pounds sauerkraut in bottom of a kettle, take one pound fresh ground pepper. Mix all together. Break up one pound of butter and put a spoonful of the meat and rice in a cabbage leaf and roll up; lay on sauerkraut and continue till all meat is used; add water to cover and boil 2½ hours.

Cheese Ball Salad—One cream cheese and one-half the quantity of Roquefort cheese cut fine. Mix well, adding a little cream, and season with salt and paprika. Form into little balls and roll in chopping walnut meats. Serve on lettuce leaves.

Roquefort Cheese Salad Dressing—Make a French dressing by mixing nine tablespoons oil and four tablespoons vinegar. 1½ teaspoons salt, pinch of paprika, pinch of pepper and two teaspoons sugar. To this dressing add three tablespoons chives and two tablespoons thick cream. Beat together thoroughly and put on ice. Before serving add one-fourth pound Roquefort cheese cut in fine pieces. Serve over hearts of lettuce. This recipe is enough for ten servings.

Dainty and Light Cakes (can also be made into layer cake). Break one whole egg and yolks of two more into bowl; add one cup sugar and cream together; add one cup milk, stir thoroughly. Add one cup cornstarch with one teaspoon baking powder; beat again, then add one cup flour, pinch salt, one teaspoon baking powder. Last of all add few drops vanilla flavor if liked. Mix again thoroughly. Grease patty pans well, fill half full, put in hot oven, bake ten minutes. Frosting: Beat the two egg whites, two tablespoons cocoa mixed with little hot water and two cups confectionery sugar; beat smooth and spread.

THE GOOSE STEP

Our favorite prescription for auto-intoxication, biliousness, simple anemia, that tired feeling, lack of ambition, incipient obesity and cold hands and feet—all in one person—is two miles of oxygen every day, or in other words, walking to and from work.

Individuals engaged in sedentary occupations indoors are particularly subject to the group of symptoms mentioned, and nine times out of ten these semi-invalids don't like to walk and don't know how to walk. They really imagine a mile is a long, long, long walk, especially when the weather is a little too cold, too warm, too wet or too dry.

If your work is just-around the corner it is somewhat difficult to cover the miles going and coming. But there is one way to do it without wasting time running in circles. Try the goose step.

Everybody knows what the goose step is from the pictures. It is a manner of walking with exaggerated extension of the legs. Instead of allowing the leg to swing forward passively and flexed, as in ordinary walking, you throw it forward with the knee stiffened, so that you really step much higher in the air than necessary. About every second step will set your heart a-thumping and make you puff a trifle, it is so hard. Twenty goose steps will make you pretty tired, but they will just about be enough for thirty days. Try it some evening when nobody is watching in just to see how it goes.

The goose step is an antidote for "high stomachs." It calls upon the rectus muscles of the abdomen—in fact it calls upon a lot of muscles you have hardly known were yours. You will find the day after your first experience.

Adolescents, skirts, just now, fortunately, are out of bar to exercise. They may join the parade at any time and you will find the day after your first experience.

Neither garments, however, have a tendency to impede the free and untrammelled activity of the

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Catarrh of the Cheeks.
Is there any skin food or preparation which one can rub in for the purpose of fattening hollow cheeks or filling out the neck and bust?

Answer—There is no such agent known. Certain fats may be absorbed when rubbed into the skin, but if so they are not deposited throughout the body. The only way to fatten cheeks, necks or busts is to fatten the whole body.

Tonsils and Glands in Neck.
I have large and infected tonsils and haven't the necessary funds to have the removed. But lately I notice sore and swollen glands under and behind the ear. What causes them?

Answer—The infected tonsils—infected tonsils are the most common cause of enlarged glands in the neck, and decayed teeth come next.

Cancer Not Heritable.
My father died of an advanced stage of cancer of the pylorus of the stomach. Two daughters are approaching middle life. What are the chances that they will inherit the disease?

Answer—Practically none. There is no good reason to believe cancer is heritable.

Scabies Alias the Itch.
What is scabies? How is it contracted? Is the same as Dakota Itch or Prairie Itch?

Answer—Scabies is the itch. It is contracted through personal contact with any one who has it, as by using the same towel, brush, strap, hanger in street car, etc. It is an alias for the other varieties you mention. Sometimes it is called "uric acid in the blood," "eczema," "Cuban itch," etc. but the itch mite is there with claws in every case. Grandma will tell you how to cure it with sulphur ointment—not with sulphur internally.

AN INSPIRING LIFE DOCUMENT

Some weeks ago a correspondent asked me if I could tell him how a man of six could live on a wage of less than ten dollars a week.

I didn't see how it could be done, and passed the problem on to my reader friends. In answer I had the following letter published. It not only causes me to be thereby persuaded that less than ten dollars a week is a living wage for a family, but because the splendid courage of its writer is so inspiring.

"You ask if it is possible for a family of six to live on less than ten dollars a week. No doubt there are some families living this winter on this amount, or less. I would neither ask for or accept charity."

How One Woman Lived On Less Than Ten Dollars a Week.
"Since coming here, eighteen months ago, I have found it necessary to reduce living to the lowest possible notch and yet try to give my family of five a nourishing, well-balanced ration. If one has been forehanded during the summer months when fruits are cheap and after expenses are less, the storehouse should be well stocked with fruits and vegetables. I had about one hundred dollars in the winter. So for the month of September, October and November my grocery bill, including meat and milk, never exceeded twenty-two dollars. 80 cents and a half, which I used only to cook with, $1.80. This gives you a total of $22.60. Thus you have a balance of $6.40 for carfare and other expenses."

Her Household Budget.
"It cannot be done without careful planning. I buy in quantities of most things. My bill is something like this: Potatoes, $2.25; flour, $1.90; butter (three pounds) $4.20; meat, $3; ham or bacon, $3; canned milk (one and one-half dozen), $1.35; coffee (three-pound can), $1; sugar, $1; cereals, $1; ten pounds lard substitute, $1.35; 25 cents; white beans, 25 cents; pink beans, 25 cents; spaghetti, 25 cents; fresh vegetables and eggs, $2."

But I have made no entry for clothes, but that is a story alone. However, I have managed the family; the family are all warmly and neatly dressed at all times.

They Find Plenty of Pleasures That Cost Nothing.
"Do we have any pleasures? Yes, many. The outdoors is all free. We can take long walks and enjoy the sunshine, flowers and scenery. We can visit the 'shut-in' and try to carry some of the outdoor life in. We can always help those less fortunate than ourselves if it be only a kindly word or a day helping with the children."

The public library gives us plenty of good reading and the daily newspaper is our only luxury. There are a few public meetings and lectures that we can enjoy, though most of the 'free things' have the 'silver

With soils that have been well fertilized in the past, however, to use the normal amount of potash will probably not affect the lawn badly in one season. SPORTS

LAKOTAS WIN OVER BROWNS IN AN EASY GAME BY 9 POINTS

Game Was Nothing to Get Excited Over as Lakotas Were Not Forced to Exert Themselves.

Playing ragged basketball, shooting poorly, and all in all, performing in a manner that was far from their real class, the Lakotas Cardinals once again trimmed the Chicago West Side Browns, as they won Saturday night at the Auditorium by the score of 26 to 17. They never were in danger, and were content at all stages to keep just a few points ahead of the Chicago players, but when they needed scores, they had little trouble in getting the points necessary to place them in a safe lead.

Next Saturday night the Lakotas will stack up against the fast Rockford Co. K. basketball five in a championship game and they will have to show a decided improvement in all departments of the game, to hold their own with the Rockford cracks, judging from the game they played last week. The way the Lakotas missed baskets Saturday was a shame, but all the players had a heavy schedule last week at their colleges and consequently were not full of the "up-and-at-em" spirit with which they get the points and win games.

Hemming Not Here.

Hemming missed getting the train to Janesville from Madison last night and his absence at the game was keenly felt in the team play. Eddie Atwood was shifted from forward to center, and Murphy of Rockford was imported to fill out the team, playing forward with Edler. Joe Ryan, a member of the Dubuque college, played guard with Dalton, and while Ryan has improved wonderfully at the game, still shows some of his old faults. He is still too fond of shooting for the goal, denying the team of more open shots, through his over-anxiousness to score himself.

The Browns had a better team, but their alleged star, Anderson, fell short of being the celebrated player that press agents would have us believe. He scored four baskets, the same number as Ed Ryan, who guarded him, but there is a whole volume of basketball that Anderson has yet to learn before he will be a real player. Corby, their center, was the only other player to get over a single goal and the majority of the scores were the direct result of the Lakotas' indifference and lack of attention to the stone-wall defense that they can put up.

Could Not Dribble. The Chicago five again proved they were "rotten" at dribbling and this fault was probably due to the fact that they were unused to the double dribble rule as they were not experienced in dodging. In the first half the Lakotas got a safe lead and played rings around the Browns. They passed the ball at will and the only way the Browns could obtain the ball was when one of the Lakotas took a long shot and failed to cage the ball, and one of the Chicago players would get it off the bounding board. The half score ended 14 to 9. The second half score stood 12 to 8 and in this period Anderson made three baskets, one an extremely long shot that sailed on a straight line into the goal.

This half the Lakotas were not playing their "Jonah" basket and managed to count a fair percentage of their shots, but all of them were offenders and missing goals from an easy angle and distance.

Careless With Passes.

On Friday night a team of a few of the Lakotas and subs will play Stoughton at Stoughton and then meet Rockford the next night. The team will have to bolster up on their passing, shooting and guarding before they will beat the Co. K. team with Fogarty, Murphy, Stegeman, Young and Thompson. Saturday night the Lakotas were careless with their passing, Dalton making mistakes oftentimes, and batting or throwing the ball into the hands of the Browns and the others did this also to a less extent. Dalton, however, was the defensive star, as he broke up more plays than any other two Lakotas, and held his forward scoreless. He made numerous attempts to score, for the Lakotas "beat" the ball to him with no success and Dalton still has a record of two baskets on the home floor for this season.

The summary: W. S. Browns (17) Lakotas (26).—W. S. Martin, Klegz Murphy, Edler, Anderson, Corby, Dalton, Fogarty, Stegeman, Young, Thompson. Field goals—Atwood, Anderson, Ryan, 4; Murphy, Edler and Corby, 2; Mendelson and Butzlow, 1. Four goals—Butzlow, 1. Referee—William Langdon. Attendance—336.

Between Halves.

The championship I. A. C. team only beat the Browns' points on their own floor for the title of Chicago and if scores can be taken as dope, the I. A. C. would be as easy for the Lakotas as the Browns, for the Cards could triple the score on the Browns, if they so desired.

Rockford and Tomah are feared as the next opponents of the Lakotas to settle the western title. Tomah beat Co. E, and evidently have some claims to the state title. The Lakotas will have to have a crack forward to play here Saturday against Co. K. Fletcher may play, but it is not certain.

The Louisville Colonels will not make a training trip to Florida this spring, as intended. The plan now is for a short trip to some point in Tennessee, probably Nashville, where games will be played with the Southern league team.

Art Wilson, according to reports, says he's entirely satisfied with his sale to the Pirates by the Cubs. Yes, and there are a lot more ball players who'll be satisfied to land anywhere now that the Federal league is dead.

Eddie Collins, star second baseman of the White Sox, isn't going to follow the footsteps of "Billy" Sunday, baseball evangelist, his friends in Philadelphia say in commenting upon Eddie's anti-booze talk to Sunday school children at Palmira, N. J. "Eddie," they say, "is an enthusiast on clean living and good habits, and to see that young folks start life with a healthy body, but he's going to stick to baseball."

Big league managers are talking real sassy in these days of baseball peace when their players hold out for salary increases. Eppa Jephtha Rixey, the Phillies' elongated college yell pitcher, demands a $700 raise and says he won't sign till he gets it. "If he doesn't come across in a few days," announces Pat Moran, "he may find himself on the outside looking in."

Here's the first betting on the Jess Willard-Frank Moran ten-round title party now scheduled for March 25 in New York: $100 to $500 it doesn't take place March 25; $10 to $8 that it will; $100 to $500 that Moran will win; $50 to $300 that Moran will knock Willard out; even money that, if there's a knockout, Moran will score it.

Dutch Leonard, Red Sox hurler, is going to become a benedict, according to Boston scribes. He's going to marry Miss Lucile Cavanaugh, a member of Ziegfeld's Follies, according to reports.

Eddie Plank, Federal southpaw, has come to terms with the St. Louis Browns and will accompany the squad to Palestine, Tex. Plank leaves but one Brown hold-out, Dave Davenport.

Three leading Federal league outfielders still remain in the "unpurchased" list. They are Claude Cooper of the Brookfields, Rebel Oakes of Pittsburgh and Jack Dalton of Buffalo.

Manager Robinson of the Dodgers is tackling a real job. He is going to try to bring back to their old form three veteran pitchers who won their spurs with other clubs. Jack Coombs, Claude Marquard and Ed Egan make up the trio. If the experience succeeds the Dodgers will have a team to be feared.

Charlie Herzog says Joe Tinker, new Cub boss, pulled a bone when he turned Cy Williams and thirty-two other Cub players loose before even becoming manager of the club. Herzog was trying to get Williams and didn't, so this may account for the remark.

Training camp expenses have not been cut by the baseball peace, say owners of the two major league clubs. It's estimated that the Yankees and Giants will spend about $15,000 each for training. The Yanks will have 51 men at their camp while the Giants will have 45.

Until the Federal leaguers tried their hand at the game, one never heard of a club fighting for the pennant to the last day and losing the championship by less than a point, dropping more money in a season than one that finished last. A club losing more money when it finished second last pennant race than it lost when it finished last in the same league the year before was never heard of until the Federal league got into the game. But this happened, according to some startling information handed out by Phil Ball at the recent American league meeting. Here are Ball's figures: The Terriers lost $20,000 in 1913. The Terriers finished last in 1914 and lost $35,000. The Terriers finished second in 1915 and lost $44,000.

BENNY PALMER TO MIX WITH CHARLIE METRIE IN FOND DU LAC BOUTS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Fond du Lac, Feb. 28.—The Fond du Lac Boxing club has arranged a star card for Tuesday, February 29, presenting a double win-up of two ten round bouts between Palmer and Metrie of Memphis, Tenn., and Charlie Metrie of Milwaukee, and Young White of Oshkosh, and Frankie Lynn of Chicago.

Palmer recently held Lightweight Champion Freddie Welsh even in a ten round battle and is classed by good judges of the game as one of the best men in his division. He has won from two clubs of matches with Charlie White of Chicago if he defeats Metrie. Metrie is a Badger boxer now under the wing of Mike Collins of Hudson. He has been making rapid strides of late, his two most recent victories being over Freddie Andrews to whom he conceded a big chunk of weight, and Matty McCue of Racine. White and Lynn are both lightweights of exceptional class.

MADISON DEFEATS EDGERTON HIGHS IN GAME SATURDAY.

Edgerton, Feb. 28.—About two hundred Edgerton people, attended the basketball game at Madison Saturday evening, taking advantage of the special train which left here at six o'clock. The Edgerton boys as usual played their fast and clean game of basketball. Their difficulty was the inability to throw baskets. In passing the ball and team work the boys had the best of the Madison team but when it came to putting the ball through the ring it was simply out of question. There were only two fouls called on the local five while Madison were penalized as many as a dozen times for foul plays. The final score stood 27 to 8 in favor of Madison. This makes the first game the Edgerton team have been defeated, having defeated Madison on the local floor.

OLDER MEN, EVEN FIFTY YEARS OF AGE, MAKE BEST SOLDIERS, SAYS AUSTRIA

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Vienna, Feb. 28.—The calling to the colors of men between the ages of fifty and fifty-five, has caused the discussion in the Austro-Hungarian press of what the older men have done in this war.

The view had been generally held that the man at fifty had passed into old age, so far as military value was concerned, but the war is said to have proven that this position is untenable. It is admitted that in trades and occupations requiring physical dexterity, the man over fifty is apt to be a failure, though the well-preserved worker of that age is generally still capable of great endurance.

The experience in the army is that men up to thirty are generally less hardy than men up to fifty. In addition to being as yet far from "physically set," that is entirely beyond the growing stage, the younger men often reduce their endurance and physical vigor generally by incorrect eating. Older men are not in the habit of doing this, it is asserted.

But the young men sin, also in other respects. Often they are indifferent to hardship when they should not be, while the older men see to it that their feet are always dry and warm, the younger soldiers overlook this habitually.

With the officers, the older soldier is the favorite. Not only does he give less trouble to the sanitary department, but his riper mind understands more readily the purposes and necessity of military discipline.

An Austrian colonel with whom this subject was discussed said that older troops needed little application of discipline, because their natural conduct as grown men was discipline in itself. He had seen no difference in the fighting qualities of young and older troops, he said, but he himself would always prefer to lead men over the age of thirty-five.

Of very young troops, the colonel had a poor opinion. In trench warfare their value was not high. Constant reiteration of commands and orders was the lot of the officer who commanded "young bloods," while the officer in charge of older troops could count on having orders carried out as soon as they were given. The old men, too, fought with more "sense," said the colonel. They did not shout

And the Worst Is Yet To Come

so much, but dealt out heavier blows. Excepting bone fractures and very serious internal wounds, the old soldier gives no more trouble than the young one to the medical service. Authorities are of the opinion that the smaller percentage of sick among the older troops counterbalances wholly what little surgical difficulty they give. It is declared by the writer that even after the war, the man over fifty in Europe will occupy a more important position in the industrial and commercial fields than he has done in the two decades.

Even a King can't dictate what you should like or not like

If it so happened that Fatimas were originally "Made and blended for the King of Whatiz"—would that fact prove that you were going to like Fatimas best? It would not.

A man's taste is his own. A cigarette that might delight some old potentate's palate would not necessarily please you.

That's why we leave Fatimas up to your taste.

But there is something more than good taste that is mighty important to you.

No matter how good-tasting a cigarette may be—it can only be the SENSIBLE cigarettes for you if it is comfortable, too.

Its pure tobacco must be cool and comfortable to your throat at all times. And it must leave you feeling fine and fit at the end of a hard-smoking day.

Will it do all that? Then, it is the sensible cigarette for YOU.

There are thousands and thousands of men who believe that Fatima is the most sensible cigarette there is.

Try them yourself. You may discover—as these thousands of other men have—that Fatimas have just the cool, mellow taste that you've been longing for in a cigarette.

You may find that Fatimas have the kind of mildness which allows you to smoke more of them than you might of other cigarettes.

You may find that Fatimas offer you a little more satisfaction in every puff than you ever before found in any other cigarette.

Gerry paced angrily up and down the veranda. Calm came back to him. He saw that he had been a fool. He stopped and sat down on the steps of the veranda. Here, before he had made his benches, she had often sat beside him, caressed him, sung to him. How cold he had been. How little he had done for her. He remembered that as she had worked on baby clothes she had said she wished she had some blue ribbon. They had all laughed at her, but she had nodded her girl's head gravely and said, "Yes, I wish I had some blue ribbon—a little roll of blue ribbon." What a brute he had been to laugh!

Gerry still waited. It was terrible to wait. Then she called to him, "Gerry! Gerry!" He leaped up and pounded on the door but nobody came. Yesterday they had all been so kind to him; today he was nothing. He shouted, "I am here! I shall always be here." She did not call again. He paced up and down the veranda saying to himself, "A little roll of blue ribbon—a little roll of blue ribbon!" He stumbled on the saddle that Lieber had sent him. It held his eye. He picked up the saddle and ran down to the pasture. He caught the oldest and gentlest of the horses, opened a gap in the fence and led him out. Then he called Bonifacio. "Listen," he said, "you must take the fattest of the steers—the red one with the blazed face—you must drive him into town and sell him."

The darky demurred. "It is too late for market, master."

"It does not matter. You must do as I say," said Gerry angrily. "You must sell the steer. If you cannot sell him you must give him for blue ribbon. Do you understand? You must bring back blue ribbon for your mistress. She says you must have a little roll of blue ribbon."

Hours passed and Bonifacio returned. He laid a little package and some money beside his master. He unsaddled the old horse and turned him into the pasture; then he came back, sat down at Gerry's feet and slept. Gerry looked with wonder on his nodding head. Then the door opened and Dona Maria came bustling out. "Come in," she cried; "thou art the father of a man child."

Gerry went in and knelt beside the bed. Margarita looked at him and smiled faintly, proudly. He laid the little roll of blue ribbon in her weak hand. She turned her head slowly and looked down. She saw the glint of blue and understood. She turned her eyes, swimming black pools in a white, drawn face, to Gerry. To sacrifice she added adoration.

Chapter XVII

The calm which had settled on Alix's life puzzled her. She wondered if she was beginning to miss Gerry less. She was still debating the point when Collingford arrived in the city. Upon arrival he called on Mrs. J. Y. and then on Nance and then, of course, on Alix. As she came into the room he felt a strange fluttering in his throat. It stopped his words of greeting. He stuttered and stared. He had never felt so glad at the sight of any one.

"What are you looking so dismayed about?" cried Alix with a smile and holding out her hand. "Has a short year changed me so much? Am I so thin or so fat?"

Collingford recovered himself. "Neither too thin nor too fat. It is perfection, not imperfection, that distinguishes a man. You call it a short year?" he added gravely. "It's been an eternity—not a year!"

But Alix was not to be diverted from her tone of badinage. She looked him over critically. "Well," she said, "I congratulate you. I didn't know before that bronze could bronze. What a lot of health you carry about with you."

Collingford smiled. "Glen said I looked as though I had been living on babies."

They sat and stared at each other. Each found the other good to look upon. Seen alone, Collingford's tall, tense figure or the fragile quality of Alix's pale beauty, would have seemed hard to match. Seen together, they were wonderfully in tone. Alix grew grave under inspection. Collingford nervous. "There is no news," he asked.

"None," said Alix and a far-away look came into her eyes as if her mind were off, thousands of miles, intent on a search of its own.

Collingford broke the spell. He jumped up and said he had come for just one thing—to take her out for a walk. It was one of those nippy early winter afternoons cut out to fit a walk. Alix must put on her things. She did and together they walked the long length of the avenue and out into the park.

By that time they had decided it was quite a warm afternoon after all—almost warm enough to sit down. They tried it. Collingford sat half turned on the bench and devoured Alix with his eyes. And just as he was going to say a word Alix gave him a full, measuring look and said, almost hastily, "It is too cold, after all. Quite chilly. It is our walking so fast deceived us." She rose and started tentatively toward the gate. "Come on, Honorable Percy," she said playfully.

Collingford caught up with her and said moodily, "If you call me Honorable Percy again I shall dub you Honorable Alix."

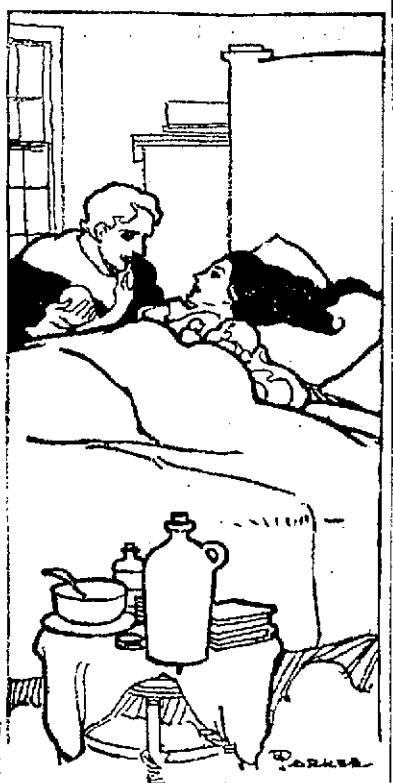

They were walking down the avenue. "Honorable Alix isn't half bad," he continued thoughtfully. "The race has got into the habit of yoking the word honest to our attitude toward other people's pennies but it's a good old word that stands for trustworthy, sincere, truthful and all the other adjectives that fit straight riding."

"Speaking of riding, Mr. Collingford, you're riding for a fall," Alix glanced at him meaningly.

"How did you know?" he stammered and then went on rather sullenly. "Anyway, you're wrong. I'm not. But I was just going to. He predated viciously at the cracks in the pavement with his stick.

"Don't," said Alix. "Don't do that. I mean. You'll break your stick and it's the one I like."

Collingford turned a flushed face to her. "Look here, Alix," he said, "you are honest and sincere and all those things I said. Don't let's hedge—not just now. If your bad luck doesn't let up—if you learn anything—anything you don't want to know—I can't say it right out—would you—d'you think you ever would—"

Gerry Went in and Knelt Beside the Bed.

Alix did not smile. He was too much in earnest and she liked him too much—was too much at one with him—not to feel what he was going through. "I like your Honorable Alix," she said, after a pause, "and I'm going to let her do the talking for a moment. If I learned absolutely that—that Gerry can never come back to me, there is no man that I would turn to quicker than to you." Collingford gave her a grateful look and the flush under his tan deepened. "Don't misunderstand me," she went on. "I like you a whole lot, but I have never thought of marrying anyone but Gerry. I'd like to marry Gerry. I've never married him yet. Not really."

They walked on for some time in silence. Collingford's thoughts had raced away southwards and Alix followed them unerringly. "Don't make one horrible mistake, Percy," she said when she was sure. "Don't imagine that I could ever love the bearer of ill tidings."

Collingford flushed, this time with shame. "No, of course not," he stammered.

"You see—or can't you see?" she went on. "That all this new life of mine I've hung on to a single hook of faith. I could not break out from this probation for any other man. I do not mean that a woman can love but once—not necessarily. But I do think that one's life must spring from a new chrysalis to meet a new love fairly. Second loves at first sight have a tang of the bargain counter and the ready made. Love is not a chance tenant. He must build or grow into a new home."

They walked on in a full silence. Collingford's shoulders drooped. For the first time in his life he felt old. "You are right—you are always right," he said at last. "I shall go away—somewhere where it's easy to sweat."

"Somewhere where it's easy to sweat!" exclaimed Alix. "What an ugly thought!"

"It's only Bodsky," said Collingford reminiscently. "Bodsky says you can drown any woman's memory in sweat. Good old Bod! I wonder where I shall find him."

"Oh," said Alix. "If it's Bodsky's, one mustn't quarrel with it simply because it is ugly. But—"

"But what?" said Collingford.

"I was going to say, 'But what naked language!' Perhaps it is one of those truths one shrinks from because it starts in by slapping one's face. Anyway, even if it is a truth, it's horrid. It hurts a woman to be forgotten."

Collingford smiled. "Just so," he said and stopped before an up-town ticket agency. "Do you mind?" he asked, with a wave of his hand. They went in and he bought a passage for England. He was to sail the following afternoon. He looked so glum over it that Alix consented to lunch with him and see him off.

He came for her the next day a little late but, when she saw his face, she felt a shock and forgot to chide him. Her eyes mirrored the trouble in his but somehow she felt that it was not the parting from her that had turned him pale in a night. He helped her into the waiting cab and then sank back into his corner.

Alix laid her gloved hand on his knee. "What is it?" she asked.

Collingford's face twitched. He fixed his eyes through the cab window on nothing. "Bodsky," he said. "Is dead. He has been dead for months."

"Oh," cried Alix. "I'm sorry. I'm sorry for you." She did not try to say any more. She had put all her heart into those few words.

Collingford drew out his pocket-book and took from it a soiled sheet of paper—a leaf torn from a field notebook. He held it out to her with trembling hand. "I wouldn't show it to anyone else. Trouble has made you great-hearted. Read it."

Alix puzzled over the slip of paper. "What's the name of the place? I can't make it out."

"It's a little hole on the borders of Tibet. That paper's been handed along for five months. The envelope it came in was in tatters."

"Dear Old Pal," read Alix. "Do you remember what I used to tell you? When a man has seen all the world he must go home or die. When we last parted I had three places left to see, but they haven't lasted me as long as I thought they would. I have sent you my battery. The boxes are a bit too big for the new powder and you can't use the guns. I know, but you'll have a home, old man, and you can give them a place in a rack. They will make a little room as wide as the ends of the earth. I didn't kill her. I made her kill herself. Bodsky."

Alix was puzzled again but then she remembered. "So he didn't kill her, after all," she said.

"Kill her! Kill what?" said Collingford. "Oh, yes. I remember. As if that mattered."

"It matters. It does matter," cried Alix, outraged.

"Forgive me," said Collingford. "I had forgotten that you never knew Bodsky. You said yesterday that Bodsky used naked language. You were right. Bodsky understood things. Just as some people see red and some blue, Bodsky saw things naked. He could look through a black robe of rumor spangled with lies and see truth naked. He was naked himself—naked and unashamed. It's hard for me to make you see because you did not know him. Bodsky was one of those men who could have accomplished anything—only he didn't. He sifted life through a big mesh. All the nonessentials—the trivialities—fell through. An act with Bodsky was a volition, measured, weighed, and then buried. That's why if you knew him you knew that in his hands a crime was not a crime. That's why I know that he is dead. He never used a state carriage—his gun never missed fire."

Alix mused. "I can't see him—I can't quite see him. A man who can accomplish anything and doesn't seem wrong—a waste."

"You don't see," said Collingford, "because you are facing my point of view. You must turn around. Bodsky used to say that all humanity had a soul, but it took a tragedy to make a man. His tragedy was that life cut him out from the herd. He wasn't a creator, he was a creation. Generations, races, eons, created Bodsky and left him standing like a scarred crag. He had but one mission—to see and understand. Have you ever sat in the desert on a moonlit night and looked at the Sphinx? It holds you—holds your eyes in a vice. You wonder why. I'll tell you. It knows. That's the way it was with Bodsky. He only towered—knew—understood. If that is nothing, Bodsky was nothing."

They were silent. Presently Collingford helped her out and together they passed through the rich foyer, the latticed palm room, and up the steps into the latest cry in dining rooms. A little table in the far corner had been reserved for them. As they crossed the crowded room a hush fell over the tables. Some looked and were silent because Alix was beautiful and daintily gowned and Collingford all that a man should be, but those who knew looked because Alix was Alix and Collingford was Collingford. These soon fell to whispering, predicting a match. Alix bowed abstractedly here and there as she followed the head waiter to her seat.

Dinner Stories

"I sentence you to three days' imprisonment," said the judge. By the way, your face seems familiar. Haven't I seen you before?"

"Yes, your honor," replied the prisoner. "I'm the man who did the interior decorating in your house."

"Ah, yes, now I remember. Did I say three days? We'll just make that sentence three years instead."

The little, mild, bald man had settled down in the train to read, and, feeling drowsy after a trying day at business, fell asleep. On the hat rack above was a ferocious crab in a buck et, and, reaching the edge of the rack, it fell, alighted on the little man's shoulder, and grabbed his ear to steady itself.

All the passengers waited expectantly for developments, but all they heard was:

"Let go, Sarah! I tell you I've been at the office all evening!"

"Mamma," asked five-year-old Harry, "isn't there one single thing God can't do?"

"Not one thing," answered his mother.

"Well, then," said Harry excitedly, "I'd just like to see Him make a rock so heavy He couldn't lift it himself."

A schoolmaster recently picked a penny up in the playground, accord-

"Has any boy lost a penny?"
After a short pause, a small boy in the front row held up his hand.
"Please, sir, I did," he said.
"Ah, Johnny Smith, and where did you lose it?" asked the master kindly.

Apples and Morality.
Coleridge would have been in sympathy with the prison governor who regarded a liking for apples as indicative of moral soundness. "No man can have a pure mind who refuses apple dumplings," he said, and Coleridge's friend, Charles Lamb, who reports this saying, adds: "I am not certain but he is right. With the decay of my first innocence, I confess a less and less relish daily for those innocuous cakes. There's a physiological character in the tastes for food. The whole vegetable tribe has lost its lust with me. Only still stick to asparagus, which still seems to inspire gentle thoughts."—London Mail.

FOR BRONCHITIS, PAINFUL COUGH WHOOPING COUGH AND COLDS

Cheapest Remedy Made at Home—128 Teaspoonful for 50 cents.

When in need of a remedy for the treatment of Bronchial Affections, such as Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, Croup, Stubborn Coughs, Colds or Hoarseness, don't simply ask the druggist for a "Cough Medicine" but get the best. Tell him to give you Schiffmann's New Concentrated Expectorant, something else purely on the strength of some testimonials or the exaggerated claims of the manufacturer. The same "Money Back" guarantee goes with every bottle of this remedy sold by Smith's Pharmacy as does with Dr. Schiffmann's famous Asthmador and your money will be refunded, if it does not give perfect satisfaction; in fact even more, if it is not found the best remedy ever used for these affections. In buying this new remedy, besides securing the guarantee these druggists give, it will likewise be found the most economical to use, for the reason that one bottle (50 cents) worth makes a full pint (128 teaspoonful) of the most excellent cough medicine, after being mixed at home with one pint of granulated sugar and one-half pint of water. One bottle will probably, therefore, be sufficient for a whole family's supply while the same quantity of the old ordinary, ready-made kinds of medicine would cost between $2 and $3. It is prepared from strictly harmless plants, contains absolutely no chloroform, opium, morphine or any other narcotic or injurious drugs so do most cough remedies, and it can therefore be given to children with perfect safety. It is pleasant to take and children are fond of it. Absolutely no risk whatever is run in buying this remedy under the above positive guarantee. R. J. Schiffmann, Prop. St. Paul, Minn.

HOWARD W. LEE, County Clerk.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Daily Gazette, Feb. 27, 1876. The first court was in session today, cleaning up the law books of the November term.

Another opportunity to manufacture a poem on the "beautiful snow," several inches of which fell last night, and this morning.

The Rev. H. C. Tilton of White-water preached in Court Street Methodist church yesterday, having exchanged pulpits with Rev. H. Stone Richardson.

The slippery condition of the walks effected the attendance of the churches last night considerably. One or two had no services and those which were opened were very thinly attended. It was dangerous for any person to step out of doors.

Mr. Burr Robbins is sparing no pains or expense to make his show the coming season the best in the west. He will have for next summer a special and interesting attraction in the persons of the Lee sisters, the only female somersault riders in America. He has secured them at an enormous sum of money, but nothing is much to Mr. Robbins so long as it rivals all the other shows in the country.
